

Dear Members of the Admissions Committee,

I am writing to express my keen interest in pursuing a Master's degree in Architecture and Heritage at the University of Napoli Federico II. I graduated with a Bachelor's degree in Architecture from Addis Ababa Science and Technology University in Ethiopia, and I am enthusiastic about furthering my education in a program that integrates my passion for interior design with a deep appreciation for architectural heritage.

During my undergraduate studies, I developed a strong foundation in architectural design, urban planning, and construction technologies. My academic journey was marked by rigorous coursework, engaging projects, and hands-on experience that cultivated my skills in both modern and traditional architectural practices. One of the most transformative experiences was my participation in a heritage conservation project, where I worked on the restoration of a historic building in Addis Ababa. This project ignited my passion for heritage conservation and underscored the importance of preserving cultural identity through architectural practice.

The University of Napoli Federico II stands out to me because of its renowned faculty, innovative curriculum, and its location in a city rich in historical and architectural significance. I am particularly drawn to your program's emphasis on the intersection of contemporary design and heritage conservation, a field I am eager to explore in greater depth. The opportunity to study in Napoli, a city with a vibrant architectural legacy, would provide an unparalleled context for my academic and professional growth.

In addition to my academic background, I bring a strong enthusiasm for interior design. I believe that interior spaces play a crucial role in shaping human experiences and cultural narratives. Through various internships and freelance projects, I have honed my skills in creating aesthetically pleasing and functional interior environments. My work is driven by a desire to blend modern design elements with traditional architectural features, creating spaces that honor the past while embracing the future.

I am confident that the Master's program in Architecture and Heritage at the University of Napoli Federico II will equip me with the advanced knowledge and skills needed to contribute meaningfully to the field of architecture. I am particularly excited about the prospect of engaging with your esteemed faculty, participating in collaborative projects, and immersing myself in the rich architectural heritage of Italy.

Thank you for considering my application. I am eager to bring my dedication, creativity, and passion for architecture and heritage conservation to the University of Napoli Federico II. I look forward to the opportunity to contribute to and grow within your distinguished program.

Sincerely,

YISAK TILAHUN
