To whom it may concern

It gives me great pleasure to write this recommendation letter to Mr. Mehariw Tadege Belay, who is now a graduate student of chemical engineering department in Bahir Dar Institute of Technology.

I have known him for about five years when he was in the faculty of chemical and food engineering. He was active participant and interactive student both in theoretical and practical class and attends class regularly. I also taught him the course transport phenomena, mass transfer laboratory and Research method and he scored good results on these courses.

He has shown an on-going interest in contributing academic professionalism. It is my understanding that he intends to pursue his carrier in theoretical and practical researches in the area of chemical and food engineering. I am sure of Mr. Mehariw Tadege belay's capability of shouldering any responsibility. Hence, I recommended him in your program, in his field of interest at your organization. If you have any question or need further information about him, I am happy to communicate.

With regards
